SIAMS – a Tool Permanently at Your Service

Dear exhibitors

As a follow-up to SIAMS 2016, which ended on April 22nd, we are pleased to reply to some questions:

What do the assembly, exhibiting, and dismantling periods look like in fast-forward mode?

We have published our reply on our website at <http://www.siams.ch/news-en/what-do-the-assembly--exhibiting--and-dismantling-periods-look-like-in-fast-forward-mode-422> and YouTube at: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=K9oTqYs2tv4>. Here, you will also discover a video composed of pictures taken every 10 minutes... after all, SIAMS is over quite quickly!

What will SIAMS 2018 look like?

Well, we hope it will look at least as successful as SIAMS 2016, and we are already setting up the stands based on your requests listed on the form you filled in at the fair. Let me remind you that we shall allocate the stands for 2018 on this basis and that, if you have not yet submitted the form, you can still download it from: <http://www.siams.ch/actualite/siams-2018---formulaire-d-intention/411>. Requests will be processed in order of arrival and we recommend you do not tarry. Unfortunately, we cannot offer a larger surface and two or three open sides to everyone.

What purpose does the SIAMS website have till the next event?

Before the fair began, more than 200 news were published on this site, and we aim above all to continue offering this portal of information on microtechnology to our exhibitors. Since the fair closed its doors, already more than 20 news (<http://www.siams.ch/news/default.asp?LinkID>) were published and relayed to Twitter <https://twitter.com/SIAMS16> as well. As an exhibitor at SIAMS 2016, your login allows you to publish news on the SIAMS website with a simple copy/paste function. For instructions, cf.: <http://www.siams.ch/documents/showFile.asp?ID=2602>.

We look forward to continue working with you and help you fit your offer to the matching demand.

We shall soon contact you again with more news on the world of SIAMS.
